This change is most likely to affect scripts (bots) accessing Wikimedia websites such as Wikipedia automatically, via api.php or otherwise, and command line programs.[3] If you operate a bot, please send a User-Agent header identifying the bot in a way that isn't going to be confused with many other bots, and supplying some way of contacting you, the operator, in accordance with the API Usage Guidelines. The contact information should be given as an email address, a website, or a wiki user using the format `(<project>; User:<name>)`, e.g. `(wikipedia:de; User:DuesenBot)`. For example:

```
User-Agent: CoolBot/0.0
(https://example.org/coolbot/;
coolbot@example.org) generic-library/0.0
```

The generic format is `<client name>/<version> (<contact information>) <library/framework name>/<version> [<library name>/<version> ...]`. Parts that are not applicable can be omitted.